Handwritten Hebrew text in a cursive script, likely a manuscript or letter. The text is arranged in approximately 15 horizontal lines, with some characters appearing to be in a different script or dialect. The ink is dark and the background is light, though the image is somewhat grainy. The text is written from right to left, as is traditional for Hebrew. The final line of text is a single word, possibly a signature or a closing word.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a historical document or manuscript. The text is arranged in approximately 15 lines, starting with a large initial letter 'S' at the top left. The script is dense and difficult to decipher due to its cursive nature and the high contrast of the image. The text appears to be a formal or legal document, possibly a contract or a record of a transaction, given the structured nature of the lines and the use of a large initial.
